

Technical consultancy services

Supporting your team with technical expertise

Allow your school or trust to think big without the constraints of what is possible on your own. Some projects require a one-off injection of expertise that cover a range of technologies or a specialist level of skill. Our technical consultancy services can help fill that gap.

Services overview

RM Consultancy services act as an extension of your team to create, document and work with you on executing the project.

We'll engage with you to understand the requirements and work with you to build a clear plan on how to achieve those requirements.

If you're looking at project but don't have the technical experience or the right skill set, our technical consultancy team will support you in getting a professional design and implementation delivered to achieve your goals.

Business Outcome	Benefit
